-SYNOPSIS-

Who are we? What steers us? Who do we want to be? Where do we guide our acts to?

Each human being as a social individual, in one or another way, is conditioned by a series of behavioral norms imposed by third parties. This determines what is supposedly correct as an absolute truth and restrains our actions and our way of life, pulling us to a passive comfort zone, such is the fear impressed on us to get out of the established norms.

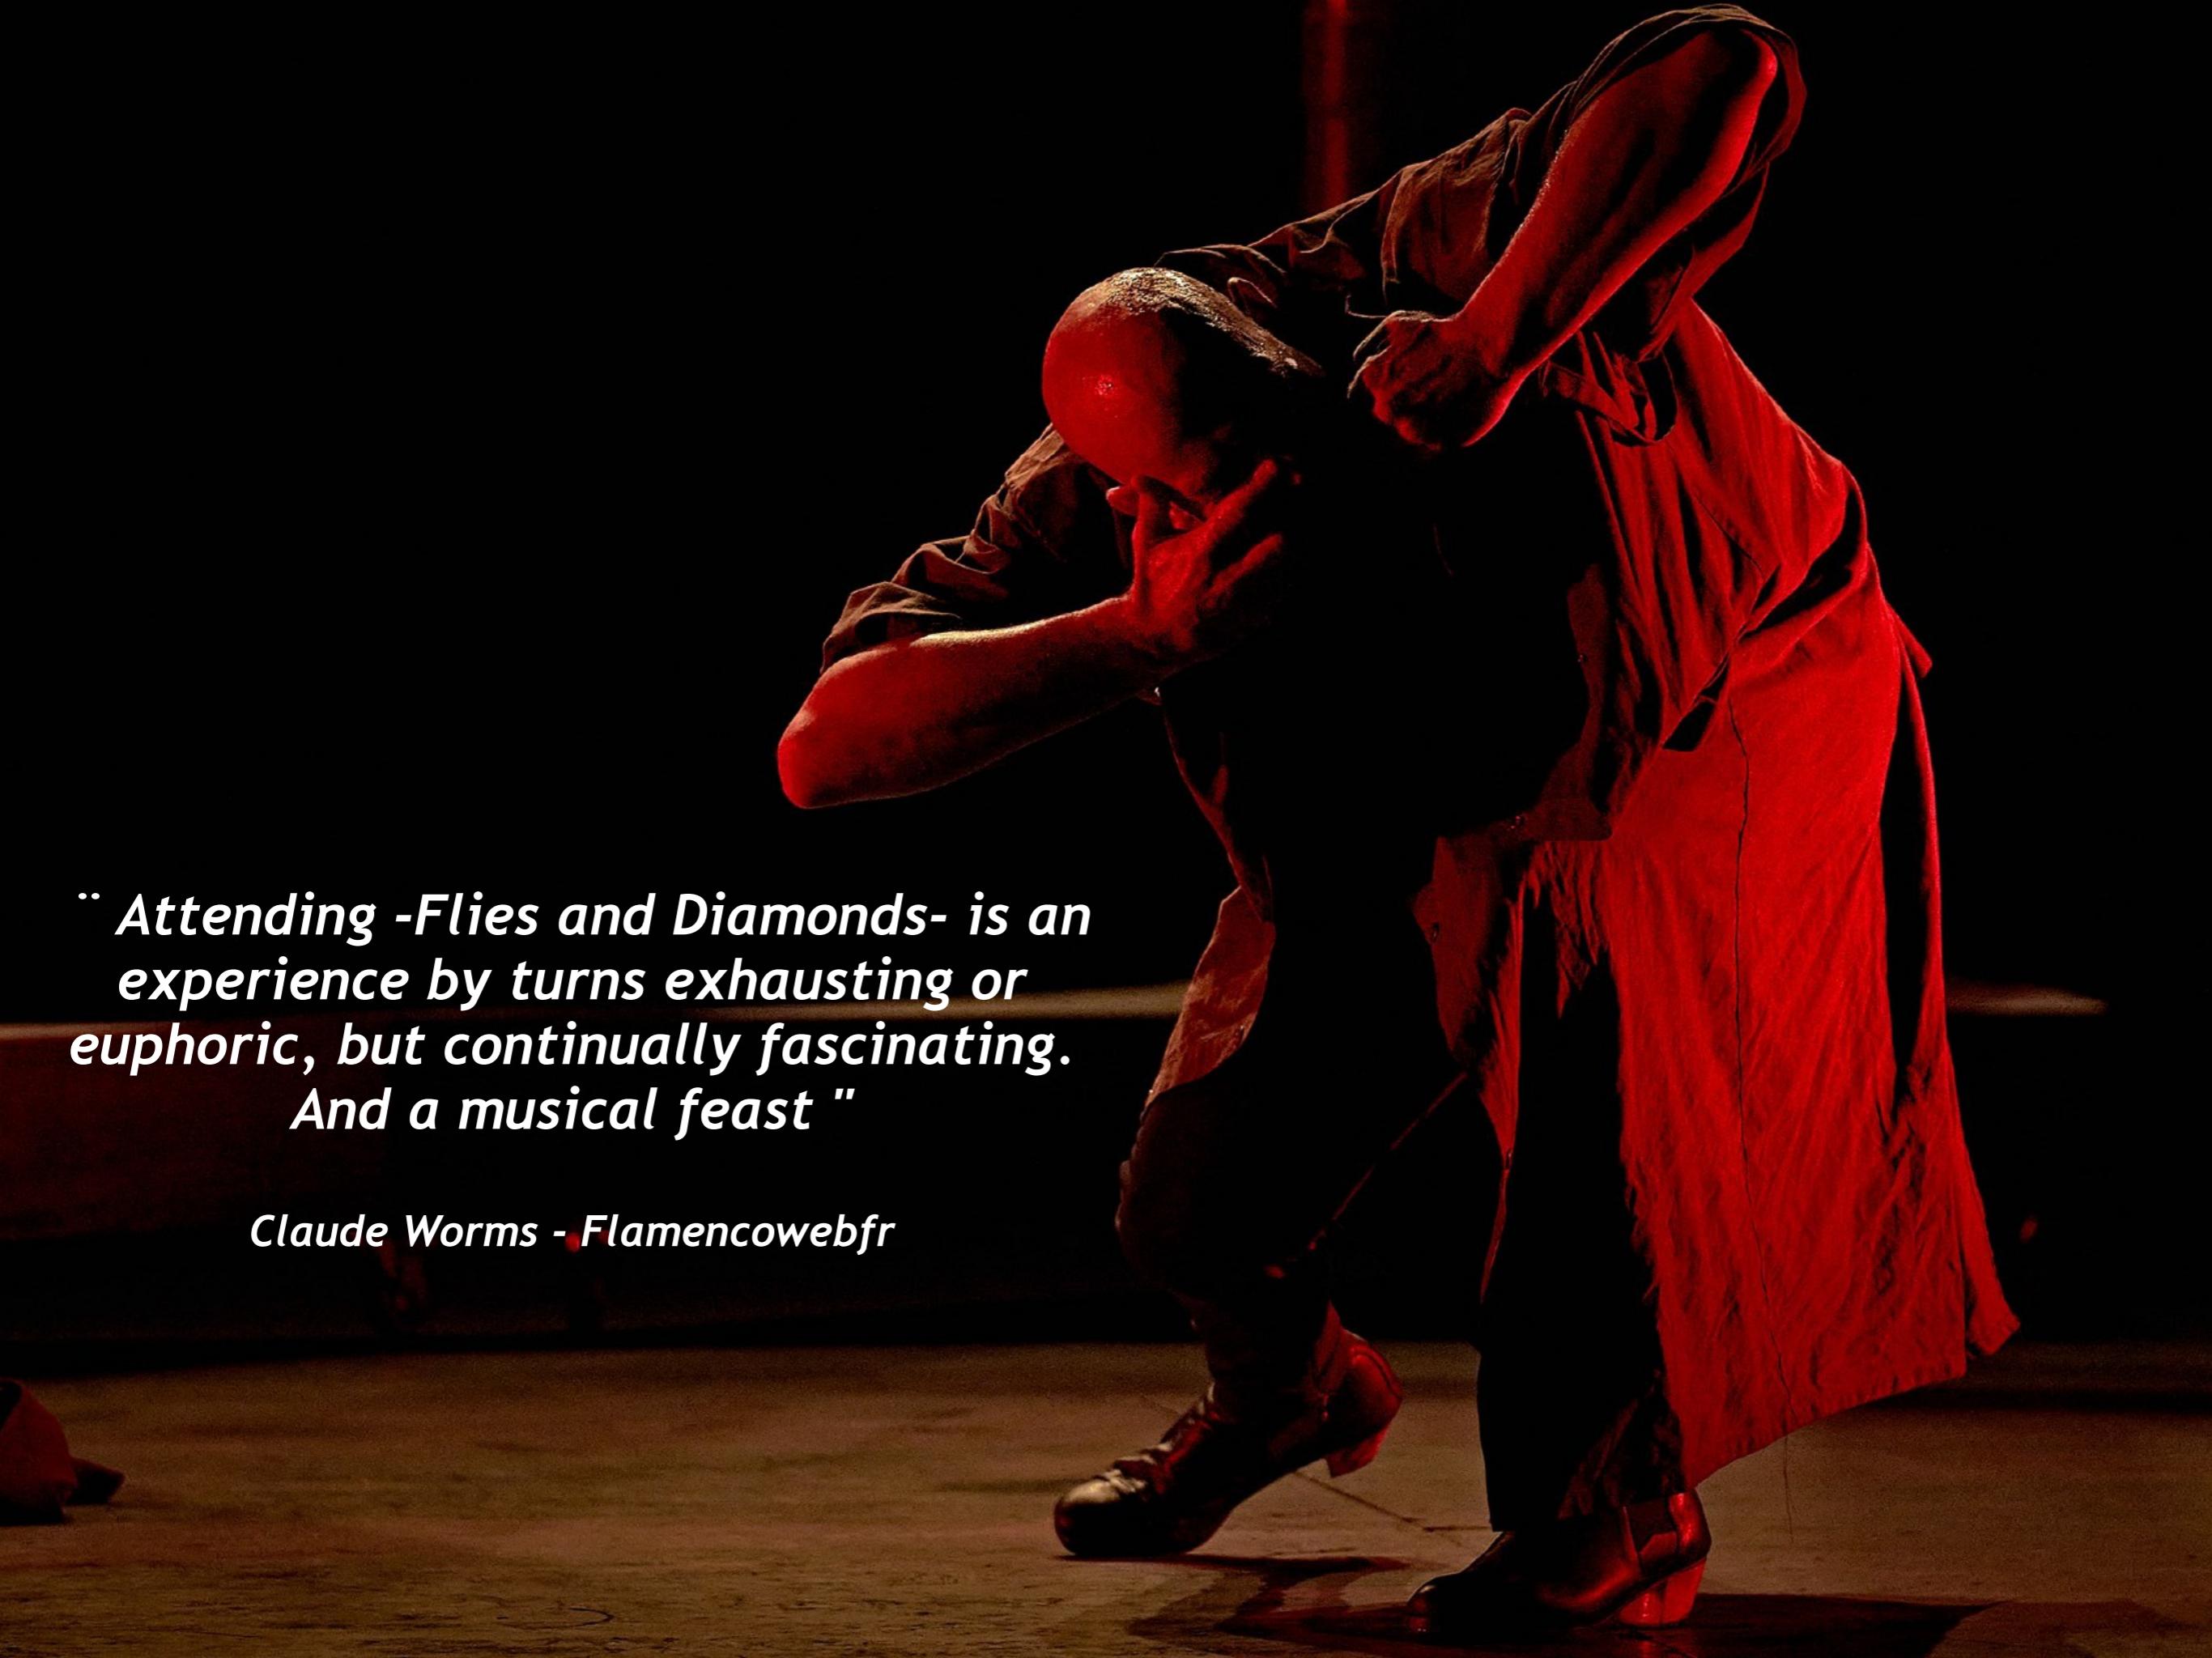

In “Moscas y Diamantes” I surrender to a work of introspection to reflect on the consequences that these “norms” have influenced my self-fullfilment as a dancer. I manage to escape from any wound caused by them and to find the reality of my dreamt world.

I seek my own perfection through the pictorial art of Oswaldo Guayasamín in every greater expression of myself; the bald guy, the imperfect man, the masculin boy, the individual self, the rustic body, the perfect self... or any self that the spectator would perceive of me.

Our essence is finally not in the hands of others and the only absolute truth is ours. So if they call us crazy ... let's dance...

Francisco Hidalgo.

A dramatic photograph of a flamenco dancer in a red dress, captured in a moment of intense performance. The dancer's body is angled, with one arm raised high and bent at the elbow, hand near the head. The other arm is lower, reaching towards the floor. The red fabric of the dress is draped and twisted around the dancer's form, catching some light. The background is dark, making the red stand out. The dancer's feet are visible at the bottom, wearing traditional black leather shoes.

“Attending -Flies and Diamonds- is an experience by turns exhausting or euphoric, but continually fascinating. And a musical feast”

Claude Worms - Flamencowebfr

A man in a dark suit is performing flamenco dance on stage. He is in a deep, expressive pose, leaning forward with his right leg extended back and his left leg bent. His arms are positioned to support his weight and express emotion. The stage is dimly lit with blue and purple lights, creating a dramatic atmosphere. In the background, there are structural elements like beams and possibly a balcony or upper level of the venue.

“A show with meaning, well structured, with a deep emotional and structural message, in which we see again a great bailaor on stage”

Juan Garrido - expo flamenco

I have felt an immense connection with Oswaldo Guayasamín's pieces: the chaos they represent is similar to the internal chaos I experiment every time I observe myself dancing; his geometric deformations reflect the dance of my imaginary world, because I think that imperfection is the beginning of the character and because like the artist, I draw my body with imperfect lines to assume them as perfect. Through the drama that I feel from those facial expressions I see my face when I dance. And the humility that transcends from his creations reflects the way I consider I should dance in order to define myself as a unique and a human artist.

CARLOS CHAMORRO

stage direction

He currently combines his work at Malucos Danza with the stage direction of different national dance companies and theatrical works of Yllana Producciones.

Daughter of Mario Maya and Carmen Mora, she stands out in the flamenco dance of the nineties for her particular way of understanding this art. Belén Maya is an advocate of freedom which is the flag of flamenco creation in all aspects, she has crossed the line of all established rules in flamenco dance at the end of the 20th century and due to her proposals she has been generating new concepts and new forms in flamenco dance in this new era.

Since the beginning of her career performing in flamenco tablaos as Zambra and Café de Chinitas in Madrid, or Los Gallos and El Patio in Seville, there have been fourteen shows (from 1996 to 2020) that endorsed her career as a creator. Some of them are: “La diosa entre nosotras”, “La voz de su amo”, “Los Invitados”, “Rumnia” or “Bailes alegres para personas tristes” in which she has always sought her own code of expression through the use of all kinds of dance and expressive resources. In addition, she shows special interest in the theatrical aspect, something that we can observe in some of her works where she uses gestures or words to approach the required character.

Awards like Flamenco Hoy or the critics' prize at the Festival de Jerez 2011 trace the trajectory of her company.

La purga y el hallazgo de Francisco Hidalgo

by Tamara Pastora — 6 03 2024 in Festival de Jerez, Novedades, Reseñas

Quince minutos antes de la hora prevista y bajo los soportales del patio de los Museos de la Atalaya, deambulaba sin rumbo Francisco Hidalgo. Descalzo y catatónico, caminó entre el público y accedió a la sala como uno más ante el asombro general. Se derrumbó en el pasillo central tratando de desprenderse de las ropas que lo hacían moverse pesado y zombi, apenas sin vida. Esas capas como condicionantes vitales. Y, claro, nos toca arremangarnos para detectarlas y reconducirlas.

Francisco Hidalgo Cía Flamenca: "Moscas y diamantes"

Jerez, Museos de la Atalaya — 5 de marzo de 2024

Claude Worms

A pesar de algunas décadas de asistencia a espectáculos de danza flamenca, no recordamos haber visto nunca una pieza que se parezca un poco a "Moscas y diamantes". Es decir, si nos resulta difícil dar una descripción, incluso aproximada, a nuestros lectores. Quizás deberíamos empezar por escribir que Francisco Hidalgo no es solo un bailarín-coreógrafo, y mucho menos un bailarín en el sentido tradicional del término, sino también un actor, un circasiano, incluso un pintor y un escultor cuya paleta y mármol serían su propio cuerpo.

Francisco Hidalgo: apartando moscas con el brillo del baile

El bailaor gaditano Francisco Hidalgo ha traído al Festival de Jerez su 'Moscas y Diamantes', propuesta que rompe con lo prestablecido y descubre a un nuevo perfil dancístico....

6 MARZO. 2024 15:07 Juan Garrido 0 0

«Francisco Hidalgo desarrolla su hora y cuarto de recital en taranta, minera y taranto, otro bloque de tangos del Piyayo, seguido de veriales, malagueña, rondeña, fandangos de Lucena y fandangos de Graná. (...) Un espectáculo con sentido, bien estructurado, con profundo mensaje corporal y emocional, en el que volvemos a ver en escena a un gran bailaor»

Francisco Hidalgo, el bailaor que soñó con ser margarita

VALERIA REYES SOTO

Jerez, 06 Marzo, 2024 - 00:22h

Exactamente así se ha mostrado Hidalgo, transparente y humilde, bailando, cantando y demostrando un fuerte trabajo interpretativo. De esta búsqueda ha brotado una margarita que el artista ha acomodado sobre su barba para seguir bailando. Una margarita que simboliza su verdad, el amuleto que siempre habrá albergado en su interior, y que esta vez ha decidido sacar y compartir en complicidad con el público.

El pintor ecuatoriano aseveraba que su pintura era "para herir, para arrancar y golpear en el corazón de la gente" y eso precisamente ha sido lo que Francisco Hidalgo ha provocado en un público, el pasado 5 de marzo en los Museos de la Atalaya dentro del marco del Festival Flamenco de Jerez, que mantuvo la respiración junto con la de Hidalgo hasta un aplauso coral final, en el que se vitoreó la sencillez, la honestidad y la maestría. El artista que, abrazado por la guitarra de Antonia Jiménez, elevado por el cante de Miguel Ortega y envuelto en la percusión de Iván Mellén, que también ejerció de chamán, consiguió que el público de Jerez se reconciliara con el Festival después de algunos "sustos o muertes" de este año. No ha sido su caso.
